Driver flees the scene of injury accident

On Tuesday, April 18 at about 2:00 p.m. Elk Point RCMP were called to a single motor vehicle accident on Township Road 553A, just east of Highway 897.

When police arrived, the driver of the vehicle fled the scene on foot into a heavily wooded and hilly area. St. Paul Police Dog Section was called to the scene but their services were not required as the suspect was later apprehended.

Three people were taken to hospital, two were released later that evening. One remained in hospital in hospital for further observation of neck and back injuries. No one in the vehicle was wearing a seatbelt. It has been determined that alcohol and excessive speed contributed to the accident. Charges under the Criminal Code, Highway Traffic Act and possibly the Motor Vehicle Act are pending.

Ranger Oil seeks to extend driving hours

Few voice concern on the issue

By Keith Robinson
Staff Writer

Last Wednesday night, approximately 80 people listened to Ranger Oil's proposal to extend their current hours of operation.

Although there was little opposition to the proposal at the Senior Citizens Centre in Elk Point, one local resident strongly voiced her concerns to the idea.

"The meeting provided very little info," says Levina Ewasiuk. "They didn't provide clear answers nor did they give any good reasons for the extension."

Ewasiuk, who lives on Willow Range Road, says the roads are not designed for the large loads that are continuously travelling on them.

"They are not maintained for that abuse. There are holes and ruts on the road. Basically, it's like driving on a washboard."

Ranger Oil Production Superintendent Bernie Heinrichs of Elk Point says they want to extend the trucking hours of operation, but it would only increase truck traffic by about 30 per cent at the most.

The proposal consists of allowing trucks to enter the battery for emergencies, allowing extended hours for special circumstances and to extend the overall trucking hours.

Heinrichs adds they believe that truck deliveries will increase this year with a minimum amount being done after 7 p.m.

"The Elk Point production is declining," explains Heinrichs. "The other corresponding issue is that trucking will decrease dramatically once Cold Lake is reactivated and that might happen as early as next year."

Ranger Oil's belief for the extended hours will reduce truck congestion in the battery, reduce truck congestion on the highway during peak public and tourist travel times and provide more flexibility for rig and construction crews.

Heinrichs says Ranger Oil doesn't have jurisdiction over county roads.

One point Heinrichs says in their favor is the declining number of school children in the area. However, Ewasiuk opposes that view.

"The safety of everyone should be first. It doesn't matter if they are a child or not, you can't replace a human life."

At the opening of the meeting, Ranger Oil's Drilling and Completions Manager Ken Kindjerski says they will be drilling new wells in the local area.

St. Lina (20 wells), Lindburgh (85) and Cold Lake (90) are the targeted areas.

F. G. Miller Jr. High hosts Communication Showcase

Eight schools show prowess in prose, poetry and drama

F. G. Miller High School hosted Junior High Communication Showcase last week, with 94 students from St. Paul's Racette and Glen Avon schools and schools in Ashmont, Mallaig, Two Hills, Myrnam, Heinsburg and Elk Point taking part in 49 presentations.

The presentations ranged from Shakespearean drama and recitations of the work of famous poets to original speeches and poetry. Improvisation, monologues, comic skits and even a song were also enjoyed by the large audience.

There were many highlights to the day, which began with the trio of Jasmine Brown, Eva Gusnowski and Kirsty Lindquist from F. G. Miller portraying very realistically the three witches of Shakespeare's Macbeth as they concocted a potion in their cauldron, and ended with Neil Hodinsky of Glen Avon with an original speech on concussions in contact sports.

Poetic interpretation ranged from Lewis Carroll's "Father

William" by Chelsey Ferbey and Niki Metrunec of Myrnam to Marianne Gorda and Sarolta Saskiw's rousing rendition of Robert Service's "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

Original oratory covered topics from Barbados Black-bellied Sheep, by Alicia Lyttle and Sarah McGonigal of Racette, with a tiny sheep brought along for emphasis, to an impassioned treatise on Women's Rights by Christiane Wong of Glen Avon.

A number of the presentations dealt with teen related issues, such as huffing of inhalants, smoking versus non-smoking and drinking and driving. One outstanding example of the latter was dedicated to the memory of Michael Knox of St. Paul, who died when his vehicle was hit by an impaired driver. Knox's cousin was part of the trio of Nicole Belanger, Sarah Hebert and Randi Morrison of Racette who gave extra meaning to that poetic interpretation.

The day wasn't all serious. Two Racette groups, one consisting of Bruce Forester, Matthew Cabaj, Janelle Fontaine, Daniel Gervais and Michael Anne Lafrance and Cyle Bush, Paul Choi and Chad Magdiak in the other, did hilarious take-offs on "Whose Line Is It Anyway." Danielle Fostey of Two Hills played dual roles in a one-woman skit about a ditsy waitress and her long-suffering customer which ended with a pie in the face for the waitress. Randy Wruth played an Elk Point Review reporter interviewing the famous Willy Wonka, played by Travis Lindquist, in a humorous number by the F. G. Miller duo.

Nicole Chalifoux of Two Hills gave a great imitation of a youngster dreading the first day of school in "The New Kid," while Scott Jefferey and Tyson Newby of Ashmont did a funny man-on-the-street interview improvisation called "Do You Smoke, Sir?"

Three F. G. Miller students, Danielle Schnurer, Aaron West and Brandi Yarmuch recited original poems, while Randi Daniels of Heinsburg recited a poem written by her sister.

F. G. Miller's Stephen Kozina and Kurt Kozicky teamed up for a poetic interpretation, as did Grayson Bilak and Darcy Ockerman, the latter two declaring "Poetry Stinks!" Michelle Friesen gave a powerful reading from prose.

Several Heinsburg students also gave poetic interpretations, including Deedee Saddleback, Amber Krider, Ruby Daniels, Rhonda Lajimodiere and Aaron Jurak.

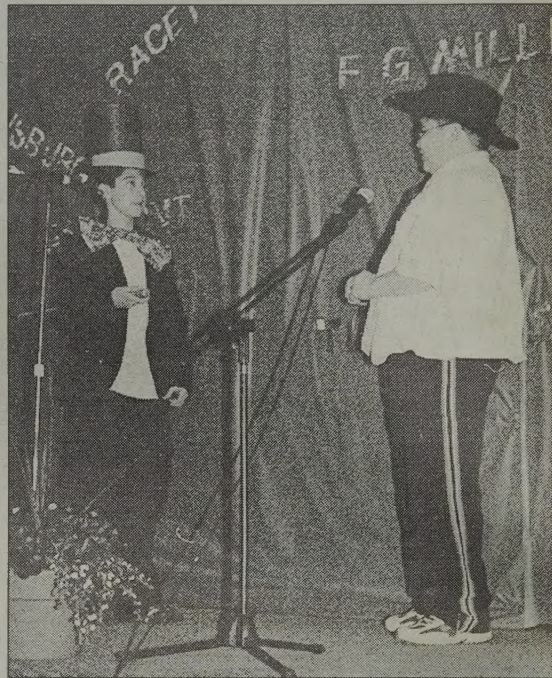

Four students from Mallaig presented a French courtroom drama, while three others, Amanda Oszust, Brad Mageau and Tyler Sundt, presented a wonderful-western drama, "Showdown at Sand Valley," where the infamous outlaw was found to have run away from home because his Scottish mother was determined to feed him porridge.

F. G. Miller principal Jim Hawkins congratulated all the participants "who entertained us so well," while Ron Boisvert of Servus Credit Union said his firm is proud to sponsor the showcase. He thanked the committee of teachers from all eight schools who organized the event and all the volunteers involved. The participants were wished continuing success. School trustee Ray Danyluk told participants they can be proud of their accomplishments, and urged them to "continue to express yourselves... it will humble others."

All of the Showcase participants received certificates recognizing their participation in the event, as well as a goodie bag of items donated by a number of generous sponsors.

WILLY WONKA COMES TO TOWN and is interviewed by an intrepid reporter from the Elk Point Review in this entertaining skit from the Communication Showcase.

April 28 is the National Day of Mourning

The National Day of Mourning in Canada, April 28, is a day set aside to remember those who were killed or seriously injured in work-related accidents.

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Last summer on the Elk Point Community Choir tour of the Maritimes, I saw in the Halifax City Park, a plaque which read: "April 28th, Injured Workers Day. We should always remember their sacrifice as we strive for a safe and healthy workplace." Another plaque read: "This tree is planted in the name of all workers injured or killed on the job."

I was impressed that the City of Halifax acknowledged the importance of workers and constructed a remembrance to injured workers in their city park. For anyone walking through the park and reading the plaques, it would certainly be a moment to stop and think about what we could all do to keep ourselves and others safe on the job.

In Alberta, the Alberta Labour Injury Statistics are high enough to be concerned for each one of us who work at a job where serious injury could occur. Claims reported in 1994 were 93,187; 1995, 91,349; 1996, 98,303; 1997, 118,121; and in 1998, 126,420.

The fatalities in the Alberta Labour Injury Statistics are also high. These who lost their lives in 1994 were 74; 1995, 93; 1996, 91; 1997, 119; and 1998, 105.

In 1998, 29.7 per cent of injuries kept workers away more than the rest of the day, 28 per cent of all workers injured were injured in their first six months on the job; most common accident for those with less than six months on the job were being struck by an object and overexertion.

In our Elk Point community, with the farming activity, salt, oil and other related labour, there could be any number of ways workers could be injured or lose their lives while working.

Watch words are always: "stay focused", "be careful", "work smart" and "stay alert". To be able to keep these slogans as part of our day, I am sure it requires a person to be responsible in taking care of one's own health with "proper diet, exercise, sleep and relaxation."

There is a saying that "exhaustion may be the last line of defense before serious illness." "Our bodies are never tired without a reason. We can live with them, not use and abuse them." So, this Friday, April 28, let us stop and think of how to take care of ourselves and prevent illness, injury or death while on the job.

Why is Heinsburg Community School S.A.D.D.?

By Sarah Daniels
Student Journalist

Recently at Heinsburg School, the students have organized a S.A.D.D. Chapter (Students Against Destructive Decisions). S.A.D.D. is a group that works with students, teachers and parents for the betterment of the community through workshops, presentations and activities on making positive choices.

S.A.D.D. deals with issues from drinking and driving to teen pregnancy and violence in schools. S.A.D.D. helps make teenagers become aware of the consequences of inappropriate actions and behavior.

S.A.D.D. also helps students make positive choices in their future.

activity was a "Sober Night Sleepover" that took place on March 17-18. The night was filled with fun activities, like badminton games, watching movies, surfing the web and having a pizza party.

The S.A.D.D. Chapter also plans on holding the Annual National 30-hour Famine on May 12-13. All money and donations will go to World Vision. The money will be used to provide food, medication and resources for communities in third world countries. The activity is a very thought provoking function for students and members of a community to participate in. A mere 30 hours without food is nothing compared to a lifetime without it. The school is very proud of everyone involved. If you haven't already sponsored someone for the famine, we encourage you to do so. Who said you couldn't put a price on life?

As for last week, the activities included lowering our school's flag to half mast on April 20 and having a minute of silence in memory of those who lost their lives in the Columbine Shooting. We also read a poem written in memory of all those who lost their lives. All week we had a S.A.D.D. booth where students and teachers pledged to make a difference by signing the "I will pledge" sheet.

We have also set up a S.A.D.D. Corner in the Senior High wing of the school. The S.A.D.D. Corner is a bulletin board put up by S.A.D.D. members with facts and articles on destructive decisions, upcoming events and information pamphlets on issues like AIDS, underage drinking and suicide.

If you are interested in starting your own S.A.D.D. chapter or "I will pledge" group, look up S.A.D.D. on-line or Iwillpledge.nashville.com for more information.

Recycling just got easier in Elk Point

Last Saturday was Earth Day, but our concern for the environment should last all year long. One thing this means is to recycle wherever possible, and in Elk Point, this just got easier. Elk Point Bottle Depot has been designated as the plastic milk jug recycling center for the community, which means you can now return bottles, juice boxes and cans for deposit, recycle your bundles of newspapers and bond paper, drop off used oil and oil containers, flattened corrugated cardboard and plastic milk jugs, all at the same location on Railway Avenue. Bottle Depot proprietor Rod Cheshire is pleased to add another opportunity to his recycling center, and hopes to continue to raise awareness of recycling in the community. He does ask that milk jugs be rinsed after emptying, prior to being brought to the depot.

■ Stay Alert... Stay Safe

Spring ahead to safety

It's April. The weather is improving, flowers are growing and children are looking forward to more time outdoors. At Stay Alert... Stay Safe (SASS) it's time to celebrate their 10th SASS month. What better time to "Spring Ahead to Safety."

We are all aware that good safety habits should be practiced all year, but after a long winter, it's smart to reinforce safety rules and it is especially important to try and make streetproofing an activity that the whole family can engage in.

The following are some basic tips for adults to discuss with their child. We suggest that you post them on the fridge or near the phone.

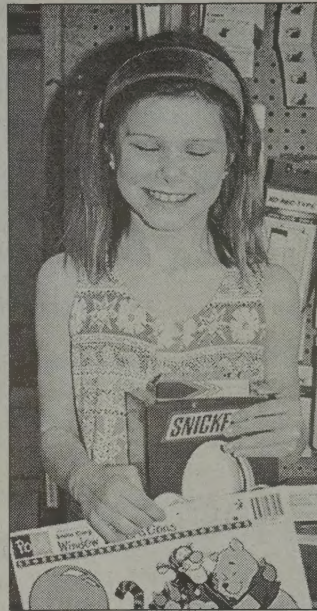

- Always avoid hanging around lonely parks, woods, parking lots or even school yards after dark.
- Always work out the best route to your activities and stick to it.
- Always go places with buddies when possible.
- Always say no if a grown-up invites you alone into their home or car.
- Always listen to your radar. It's that little voice inside that tells you when something doesn't feel quite right.
- Discuss and write down your house rules.

Stay Alert... Stay Safe is a national, non-profit organization founded in 1987. Their mandate is to provide education and awareness to children and their parents on the issue of streetproofing. For more tips on safety, bullying or babysitting, visit SASS at www.sass.ca

Foldable lens now paid for by health system

By Paul Langevin, MLA
Lac La Biche - St. Paul

The foldable intraocular lens sometimes used in cataract surgery will now be fully paid for by the public health system, announced Health and Welfare Minister Halvar Jonson.

In making the announcement, Jonson stated that following a review of the foldable lens the government determined that this lens has clear medical benefit to patients and will therefore be part of the standard cataract service paid for by the publicly funded health system. It will ensure a consistent approach across the province.

Until now, the rigid lens, implanted as part of the surgical removal of cataracts, has been the standard product paid for in Alberta's health system. The relatively new foldable lens has been considered an optional product, paid for by the patient in some regions, and paid for by the health authority in others.

Effective April 12, 2000 the foldable lens will be paid for by the publicly funded health system when used as part of the cataract surgery, similar to the rigid lens. There will be no charges to patients for this product, whether the cataract surgery is performed in a public hospital or in a surgical facility under contract to a public hospital.

Jonson added that the public funding of the foldable lens gives Albertans access to new developments and technology in the field of cataract surgery. Our publicly funded health system in Alberta will continue to add new treatments, new drugs, and new products when clear evidence exists that there is medical need, or medical benefits to patients.

The rigid and foldable lens will now be considered clinically interchangeable, based on decisions by physicians, with no charges to patients for either product. It is estimated the change will cost Alberta's health system an additional $3 million a year.

My recent visit to California

By Peter Andrishak
Review Contributor

Having just returned from a three week visit to California and Mexico, I thought some people might be interested in my observations of it.

Our first stop was Disneyland in Anaheim. Though there were many interesting exhibits and rides, with wall to wall people we often had to line up for at least an hour to get in. The admission was $41 a day. Coffee sold for as much as $3.50 a cup.

My next stop was to visit my sister Anne and her husband in the city of Laguna Niguel, located in a beautiful area of California about 60 miles south of Los Angeles. it was nice to see a green lawn and all kinds of beautiful flowers. The thing I really enjoyed was to go to her back yard and pick oranges off the trees. The oranges were so sweet and juicy, much better than the oranges we buy in the store. They are Canadian citizens who have taken up permanent residence in the United States. My sister told me they pay more than $8000 a year in health insurance.

Our next stop was San Juan Capistrano. Every year the swallows make their long journey from Argentina and arrive in Capistrano on March 19 - St. Joseph's. We toured the old Catholic mission which was built in 1770 and badly damaged by an earthquake in 1812.

We then took the train to San Diego, going by train is a very pleasant way to travel, lots of leg room and you can walk around. The coaches are double decker so you can see a lot of the country. While in San Diego we toured the city, saw the world famous San Diego Zoo, the marina and many United States Navy ships including a giant aircraft carrier.

We then went to Tijuana, Mexico. You can buy all man-

Spotlight on science at Elementary Open House

A Science Fair involving students in grades 2 through 6 was an interesting and educational part of last Monday's annual open house at Elk Point Elementary School. Parents, grandparents and the community at large traveled hallways decked with a variety of seasonal wall art, from springy-legged chicks to long tailed kites to pussy willow poems, and visited cheerful classrooms to check out the students' latest projects and chat with the teaching staff. A well-attended book fair was also held in conjunction with the open house.

Two classrooms were filled with Science Fair exhibits, which ranged from intriguing electrical bagpipes to the fascinating world of ants, and even attempted to answer the old question about which came first, the chicken or the egg.

Grade 2 students entered two very well done displays dealing with rocks and dolphins.

Topping the Grade 3 displays were three which won awards of excellence: 'Bats', by Sarah Proski; 'Butterflies' by Megan Derewynka, Sarah Zarowny and Cathy Olstad; and 'Stalactites' by Levi Henry and Danny Carlson.

Grade 4 had a total of 13 exhibits, and awards of excellence went to five of these: 'Pulleys', displayed by Adam Zapesocki and Tyson Proski; 'Color: Where Does it Come From?' by Erin Lindquist; 'A Fertilizer Study' by Natalie Maas; 'Ants' by Diedra Nelson, Megan Millar and Kandyce Kulczycki; and 'Animal Tracks' by Terri White and Elyse Anton Roberts.

Five exhibits came from Grade 5, with a working exhibit entitled 'Making Electricity' by Adam Carlson and Jason Porcina receiving an award of excellence.

Grade 6 showed the workings of a balloon rocket, the science of fingerprints and the layout of the solar system as well as an award-winning display on 'DNA' by Lisa Sparks, Ashley Murfin and Stephanie Ference.

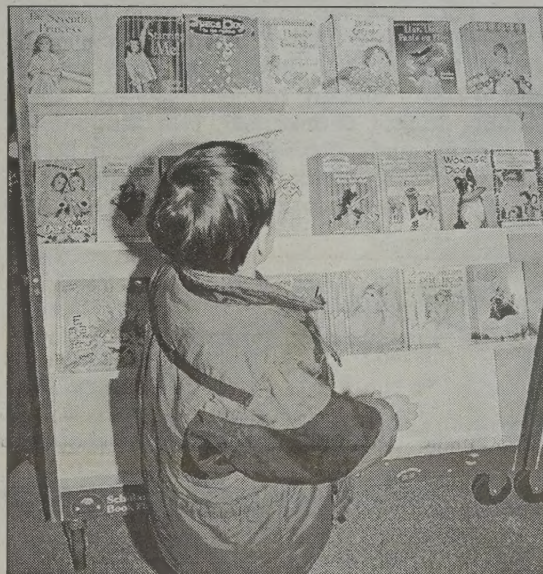

Spring Tea

Thursday afternoon saw the school again swarming with parents and grandparents for the annual Spring Tea, as students served as tour guides and proudly showed off their classrooms and served tea to their guests.

POWER HOUR - Adam Carlson and Jason Porcina made electricity with the machinery in their exhibit.

JUNIOR FINGERPRINT EXPERTS Jessica Lee and Chelsea Schnurer explored the fascinating world of fingerprints in their Science Fair exhibit.

JUST WAY TOO MANY CHOICES faced this young man at the Elementary Open House Book Fair last week.

MARVELOUS MILLIPEDES are part of the menagerie in Mr. Hymanyk's Grade 3 classroom. Sarah Zarowny, Nicole Kalynchuk and Elyse Anton Roberts make friends with the giant African creatures with so very many legs.

Elementary students present evening of plays

An audience of parents, siblings, grandparents and friends was charmed by four delightful plays performed by Elk Point Elementary School's drama club last Wednesday evening.

The drama club consists of 36 students who met each Monday for an hour after school, with another hour on Tuesdays as their opening night drew near. Mrs. Bernice Capjack-Hugo and several assistants have done a fine job of honing the skills of these young thespians.

The evening's MCs, Cindy Lynn Harper, Yolanda Kinjerski and Brandi Smereka, introduced the plays.

First came "The Truck Will Be In Tomorrow," a tale about when times were hard, and the shelves of a small local store nearly bare. Just in time, the storekeeper's friend, whom she had loaned money some time ago, returns the funds and shares his wealth to stock up the store and keep the customers happy.

Starring in this play were Cindy Lynn Harper, Tyson Proskiw, Brittany Buryn, Megan Millar, Darla Yaremkevich, Christina Moores and Catherine Campbell.

Next on the play bill was "A Rhyme In Time Saves Nine," the story of a daffy king who wanted all his subjects to talk in rhyme all the time (See, he's even got me doing it.) He went so far as to proclaim that anyone who spoke without rhyming would be thrown in the dungeon. Things are getting so bad that people contemplate moving to another kingdom, but the minstrel challenges the king to a rhyming contest and wins -- the prize to be anything he wishes, which is to have everything back to normal.

Adrian MacKinnon, Catherine Campbell, Yolanda Kinjerski, Brandi Smereka, Kandyce Kulczycki, Nicole Labrie, Emily Mosley, Christina Moores, Bailey Weir, Sarah Zarowny, Shawn Hudson, Jessica Priddle and Devon Quinney

What would Easter be without a new hat? The story of the Mail Order Hat was the third play on the agenda. A husband laughs at his wife's new hat and said she paid far too much for it, but that's only a fraction of what their la-di-da neighbor paid for the same thing. The only problem is, everyone from her mother-in-law to the egg lady to her cleaning lady has one just like it.

Starring in this one, Karly Shankowski, Darla Yaremkevich, Natasha Scott, Roseann Jurak, Erin Lindquist and Emily Mosley.

The final play of the evening was the old favorite fairytale, "Cinderella," complete with bullying stepmother, wonderfully fiendish stepsisters, a helpful gardener and a fairy godmother with great sound effects. Needless to say, Cinderella goes to the ball suitably dressed and is found by the prince, with a little help from the gardener.

This play had the largest cast of the evening, including Sarah Schade, Jessica Lee, Lauren Peters, Ashley Murfin, Craig Dallaire, Darby Brooker, Tyson Sommerville, Warren Jurak, Kelsey Slywka, Eric Mosley, Samantha Sky Dion, Megan Millar and Amy Ockerman.

Following the final bows, Mrs. Capjack Hugo was presented with a bouquet of flowers by the youngsters, for her tireless efforts with the drama club as the curtain went down on another successful evening of plays.

MUDDLED MONARCH -- The rhyming contest is just great until the King can't find a thing to rhyme with silver, in "A Rhyme In Time Saves Nine."

Sound Dragons rock FGM

By Leanne Wilson
Student Journalist

Hello from F. G. Miller High School. On April 10, F. G. Miller was rocking with Sound Dragons 2000. This program, which was first held in 1999, showcases the musical talents of F. G. Miller students. Many Crusaders, including teachers and students, entertained with a variety of music. Performers included bands The Famous Players, The Fabulous Frisbys, The Teachers Three (Mr. Bjorkman, Mr. Burke and Mr. Krys), TPKE, Think Project, Who's Your Daddy and a special guest from Edmonton, Clint McKendrick.

Well, from guitar riffs to the badminton courts. On April 12, F. G. Miller students proved they're true Crusaders with their many successes at the senior SPAA Badminton County Championships in St. Paul. Singles Zach Duguid and Amanda Cross received bronze, while girls doubles Tori Warawa and Tamara Rainboth took home the silver medal. Doubles players Tyler Hebblethwaite and Alyssa Fry battled their way to silver medals, and Kali Cousins and Cory Henderson also won the silver. The boys doubles teams - James Purdy and Dustin Yaremkevich plus Melvin Easthope and Brian Poitras captured the gold medals earning them a spot in the NEASAA Zone Championships. Congratulations to everyone!

Feature Teacher

This week the feature teacher is Mr. Bjorkman, F. G. Miller's senior high Math and Physics teacher. Mr. Bjorkman began his career at F. G. Miller in 1997 and has taught Science 8,9, 14, Math 9, 10, 20, 30, 31 and Physics 20 and 30. Mr. Bjorkman has been involved in many school activities including the awards committee, dance supervision, supervision of junior basketball and badminton, supervising band and students music practices and organizing and participating in Sound Dragons.

After graduating from F. G. Miller High School in 1992, Mr. Bjorkman went on to the University of Alberta where he graduated with distinction from a five year combined BEd/BSc program. In regard to university training, Mr. Bjorkman comments that there isn't anything a university can do to really prepare someone for the teaching profession. It prepares teachers academically but as for dealing with students on a daily basis, experience is the best teacher. During his summers, Mr. Bjorkman worked at the Elk Point Hospital and Richland.

Mr. Bjorkman enjoys reading fantasy novels, computer games, working out at the gym (just recently), and playing the guitar which he has been doing for the past five years. In the future, he would like to learn a little about music theory and improve his guitar skills. Future plans also include building a house which of course includes the essential soundproof music room. One of Mr.

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

We have some really great services available!

By Daphne Schnurer
Librarian

The library has some great services available. Be sure and take advantage of all our services. If we don't have that particular title you've been searching for, just ask. We can probably get it on an inter-library loan from another library — all you need is a membership. Membership is considerably cheaper than purchasing your own books. Plus, you have access to all our other services: magazines, videos, internet access, use of our meeting room and Storytime, just to name a few.

Reminder: to those teens who have not been in to browse through our great teen theme collection. We have a great selection of magazines, videos, Senior Year and Sweet Valley University series as well as the Harry Potter books. Some titles will have to be returned soon to Northern Lights so be sure to stop in while they're still here.

New Books

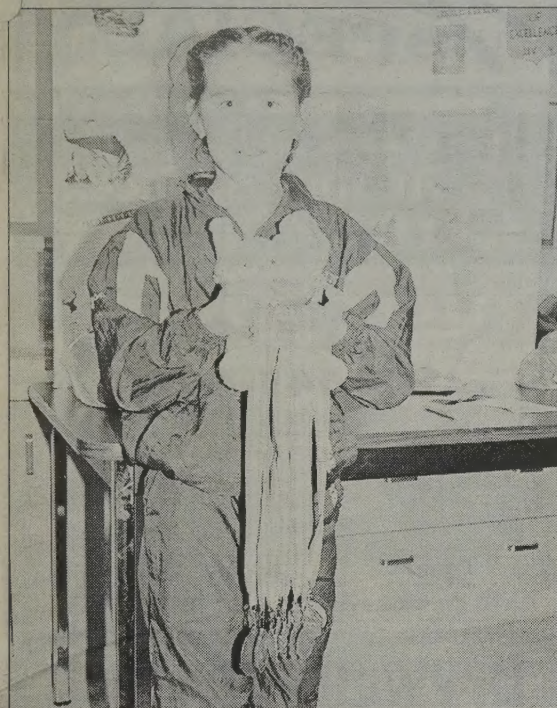

Check out the newest Step Into Reading series as well as Pony Pals and Angelwings. We have some great new historical romances by authors such as Karen Robards, Janet Dailey and Kathleen Woodiwess. We also have Angela's Ashes in paperback. This book makes an indelible impression and is a book you immediately want to share with everyone around you, a spellbinding memoir of childhood that swerves between aching sadness and desperate humor, a definite must to read.

Library Calendar
Our Next Storytime - April 28 at 10:30 a.m.

Seniors Tea - May 2 at 1:00 p.m.; we will be meeting at the library and then taking our tea on the road out to Meadowview Greenhouses.

Book Sale - June 3 - donations gratefully accepted!

MULTI MEDAL GYMNAST - Elyse Anton Roberts has won 10 medals, a stuffed animal and numerous ribbons this year at three gymnastics competitions. The Elk Point Grade 4 student trains three hours at a time, two to three days a week at the Ashlin Gymnastics Club in Bonnyville, and has been competing for three years. Elyse has been in the top three in every competition this year.

Feature Teacher

Bjorkman's goals is to find a way to better interest students in mathematics (which he knows is a long shot) and to maybe buy a Les Paul and see what all the fuss is about.

Mr. Bjorkman would like to comment that the Math 30 students beat the provincial average on the diploma exam and had the highest standard of excellence in over five years at F. G. Miller. As a closing thought, Mr. Bjorkman concludes, "My Granddad is 96 years old and I've never seen him with anything but a smile on his face and in good cheer. He doesn't have a lot of money but he always says he's a millionaire because he has lived a long and happy life. What more could a person ask for?"

Reflections on a visit to California

ner of goods from peddlers on the streets. If you haggle long enough you can usually get what you want for half the price. I talked to an old Mexican who told me he has never seen snow.

We then traveled to northern California to see the giant redwoods, these magnificent trees, some of them 150 to 200 feet tall, are over 1000 years old.

Our next stop was San Francisco where we saw the Golden Gate bridge, cable cars and Fishermen's Wharf. We toured Alcatraz Prison which housed some of America's most dangerous criminals from 1934 to 1962.

We then went to Bakersfield, this is my favorite area. For a hundred miles, the land is a level as a table. They raise all kinds of fruit and vegetables such as lettuce, cabbage, broccoli and potatoes.

Since they seldom get any frosts, as soon as they take off one crop, they plant another one. When I was there, the barley was ready to head.

Farmers were baling hay as there are many feedlots around there, some feedlots have as many as 20,000 head of cattle.

Our last stop was Los Angeles. This is a really big city, about six million people. California is much more bilingual than Canada because of their very large Mexican population. Everywhere you go, you hear Spanish spoken and you see Spanish and English signs.

While in L.A., we visited the marina, Universal Studios where films are made, and we drove past the movie stars' homes in Beverly Hills.

It was quite an experience to get into a taxi, because so many taxi drivers have been killed — bullet-proof glass separates the driver from the passengers, you pay your fare through a slot in the window. When you get to your destination, the driver has to let you out.

We had a most enjoyable trip.
